Court Taking Own Good Time

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Chancery Court, the villain of the Dickens novel "Bleak House," still is taking its time to decide the fate of orphans. "It is time we packed up the whole machinery of the Chancery Division and started again," said Lord Justice Charles Harman of the Court of Appeal in reviewing the case of two girls whose parents were killed in a plane crash in February 1964. The children, 6 and 3, have been separated since then, one with each set of grandparents. The maternal grandparents wanted to adopt the younger child. They went to Chancery Court to fight an adoption petition for both children filed by a younger couple who knew the dead parents. The paternal grandparents supported the younger couple. The case began in September 1964. Said Justice Harman: "It is a case of no great complication that could have been heard by a judge within at most a couple of months."

Bardot and New Hubby on Honeymoon

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — French cinema queen Brigitte Bardot and her wealthy German husband, Gunter Sachs, toasted their honeymoon with champagne and dined on Chinese food at a Danny Kaye. The newlyweds—married early Thursday after a surprise jet dash from France to Las Vegas, Nev.—celebrated at a casual dinner Thursday night at the home of comedian Danny Kaye, a better-than-amateur chef who cooked up a Chinese dinner. Among Kaye's guests were Roger Vadim, Miss Bardot's former husband, and his present wife, actress Jane Fonda. Thrice-married Miss Bardot, 31, and her husband, a 33-year-old widower, announced they were Mexico-bound, although Air France said they had reservations to Tahiti Saturday.

Souvenirs Just Idiotic Little Things

By JEAN HELLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two out-of-date Ohio license plates, a broken ski, a flour sifter, a couple of old copies of Playboy magazine, and about 15 tons of excess fat. That may not sound like a list of tourist souvenirs of a trip to the United States, but for 3,086 youngsters, it was. There was, of course, a smattering of models of the Statue of Liberty, picture post cards of the White House at night and a few Indian blankets. But after living in this country for nearly a year under "typical American home" conditions, 3,086 teen-agers from 59 foreign countries were far more interested in returning home with, as one put it, "the idiotic little things we can't get or can't afford in our own countries." The teen-agers arrived late last summer to live and study in the United States under the auspices of the American Field Service. They stayed with American families and many, who were high school seniors when they arrived, were returning home with diplomas from American schools. As they gathered here during their last week in this country, they had curious souvenir lists and some frank comments about the American way of life. Most startling for many of the students were Americans' strange drinking habits. Some sample comments: Stella de la Garma, 18, of Mar Del Plata, Argentina: "We have no drinking age (limit) in Argentina. Anybody can drink any time, so nobody ever gets drunk. But here, kids get drunk just because it's against the law." Hans Joerg Niebergall, 18, of Bremen, Germany: "American beer tastes like soapy water. And Americans pour beer down the side of glasses to keep foam down. That's just making bad beer worse." Jose Filomino, 19, of Sao Paulo, Brazil: "In my country, if you can reach the bar, you can order a beer." But, apparently in Brazil, he can't get old Confederate flags because they number among Jose's souvenirs, as does a set of Ohio license plates. "There's no particular reason for them," he said. "I just like them." One rather universal souvenir among the students was excess personal poundage. Nearly all of them gained weight, they said, in amounts varying from 6 to 35 pounds. If conservatively averaged at 10 pounds per student, this totals more than 15 tons. "It's not surprising," said Annie Ringot, 19, of Paris. "Americans take cars everywhere they go. When I went to the mailbox, I took a car."

SHADOWY FIGURE in Red China's hierarchy is Teng Hsiao-p'ing, general secretary of the Communist party. Reputed to be Mao Tse-tung's hatchet man, he has moved up steadily in Peking's periodic leadership shakeups and is believed in the forefront again in the current power struggle.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

MY READERS ANSWER

THE MAIL
Dear Helen: I get so tired of people implying that the only reason our young people do certain things is that it is against the law. For instance a letter to you recently said teens drink and smoke because the law prohibits this.

I refuse to believe they are that stupid. If they are, then we had better remove ALL laws, such as "Thou shalt not lie, steal, kill," etc., as these would only be a challenge, enticing them to rebel.

I think young people are just as sensible as we were when young. Many of them respect a law and have the common sense to reason what is best for their livelihood.

Let's face it: teens smoke and drink because adults have set the example. They want to be sophisticated and worldly like their elders.

Surely if we set a better example our children would follow us and it would not be necessary to change laws to keep them from defying same.

Aren't we defying the laws of nature if we do not teach our children obedience and set before them what obedience to law and health is? — M.H.

Dear M: We certainly are... But don't expect good examples and upbringing to keep your children clear of all limit testing, any more than they kept US totally obedient when we were young.

I like Robert Louis Stevenson's remark, "For God's sake give me the young man who has brains enough to make a fool of himself." Kinda comforting, isn't it? — H.

Dear Helen: This is to "How Can I Win" whose husband is a flirt.

When we were first married, I minded a lot that my husband had a twinkle and a sweet word for all the ladies.

Then I decided to get into the act too. When he flirted I smiled and twinkled my eyes at the gal in an understanding way and in a while, instead of people saying, "That nice Mr. S..." they referred to us as "that happy couple, Mr. and Mrs. S."

He is 61 and still flirts, even though I'm sure I'm the only woman in his life.

If you can't lick 'em (and definitely can't change a flirt) join

Dear Helen: About that married woman whose in-laws won't accept her "mod" clothes. I feel for her!

I am 39, often taken for a teenager; weigh 108 and don't wear makeup or dye my hair. Yet my in-laws constantly find fault. They are so jealous of my unusually youthful good looks that to please them is impossible. They are jealous of my intellectual friends the ease with which I keep my house and raise our five children. They hoped I'd be a Jezebel confirm my looks and they have never forgiven me for not turning out as they predicted. You can't make yourself ugly to please petty people, so I concentrate on pleasing my husband who approves of me, thank goodness. Funny, I don't drink, smoke or swear; my sister-in-law does, and she is nowhere near me in domestic abilities. Yet she is accepted by "the Clan."

As you said, Helen, it's best to have your husband take you out of the family orbit. We keep 3,000 miles away from my husband's family, yet we get catty remarks even in letters. I just ignore their existence now, after 12 years of trying to win their approval. My husband visits them alone. Tell your correspondent not to tone down anything — it won't help. — Mrs. Has Been There.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen Help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star.

The Buxom Bosomed Bells Back

By SALLY RYAN
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The buxom-bosomed belle is back. Some say it may be because of the birth-control pill.

"We put two and two together," said Dan Garson, president of Lovable Brassiere Co. "We've been watching sizes go up the last two years."

Garson said size 34B always has been the biggest brassiere seller, but sizes 36B and 34C are catching up.

Cup sales are up about 20 per cent and for the first time are larger than A cup sales, reported Charles R. Carruth, Jantzen, Inc., vice president.

"And the D cup — that used to be only for older women," Carruth said, "A lot of younger women require them now."

Maidenform, Inc., also reported a swing to larger sizes — but only in the United States.

"It used to be 34B was the classic average size," a spokesman said. "About last year, we noticed it had gone up to 36B, and that we were selling more Cs and Ds."

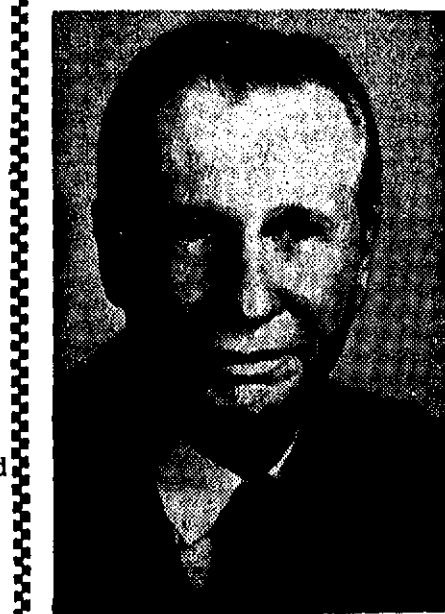

"But abroad, it's been pretty static — 32A still is the best seller in Hong Kong and 38C and D in Africa."

The Food and Drug Administration says that birth-control pills may cause a swelling of the breasts similar to that of early pregnancy, but that it lasts only about three months. A representative of a major pill manufacturer said his firm had no statistical information to support a link between the pill and bigger busts.

There have been, however, reports of tenderness and swelling which usually disappear, he said.

"I don't think you can single out birth-control pills as the one cause," said Carruth, general manager of Jantzen's Founda-

Television and Radio

EDITOR'S NOTE — Ed, the youngest of the singing Ames Brothers, left the family act to solo as an actor five years ago. He made it to Broadway in a year — and into NBC's "Daniel Boone" in three. He plays Dan's Oxford-educated half-breed sidekick.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As an actor who has played the same role in a television series for the past two years, I feel qualified to say that avoiding the pitfall of being "typed" by agents, producers and directors is practically a career in itself.

In my role as the Indian, "Mingo," on "Daniel Boone," I could possibly be thought of as only being able to play Indians. When I agreed to the role, I thought about the possibility of being slated to play Indians for years to come. And I began taking steps to prevent it.

In reality, I don't think the audiences type an actor. I feel that they accept an actor in the role he's playing. The actor doesn't have to convince the public that he can play various roles. But he does have to make the entertainment industry — and that includes his agent — see that he has a wide range of tal-

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Singer Frank Sinatra honeymooned, somewhere, with his third wife Mia Farrow today after a Las Vegas wedding performed between plane flights.

Exactly where they went hasn't been determined.

Sinatra, 50, flew from London to New York and from there to Las Vegas, landing two hours before the wedding Tuesday. Miss Farrow flew in from Los Angeles in another of his company jets. The marriage is the first for the 21-year-old star of television's "Peyton Place."

Minutes after the wedding was performed before a few friends at the Sands Hotel, the couple announced they were flying to New York and boarded their plane.

They filed no flight plan, and airport authorities in New York reported the jet did not land there. There were unconfirmed reports that they flew here instead, but airport officials had left the field by that time. Later, two jets similar to Sinatra's touched down at Van Nuys Airport, about 100 miles northwest of here, with no passengers aboard.

Sinatra maintains a home at this desert spa but the house was quiet and its windows dark Tuesday night.

To keep from being type-cast, I've managed to keep several careers going at the same time. In addition to playing "Mingo," the educated Indian, I have other careers. They include performing as a night club entertainer, recording artist, musical comedy and dramatic actor, and television and motion picture actor — all as Ed Ames.

Last year I was working almost around the clock. By day I was Mingo. At night I starred in a Los Angeles theater-in-the-round production of "Carnival."

I did not "moonlight" for the money. The extra salary I made went to pay for advertisements in show business trade papers reminding the industry of my activities in addition to the series. The physical strain of working day and night was difficult. But this is something an actor must do to help his career.

It seems to me that an actor, worrying about a television series which might prevent him from getting different roles afterwards can solve this problem by taking the required time, effort and expense. It may be a gamble. But any actor afraid to gamble should give up acting. Every role an actor takes is a gamble to advance his career. The thing he has to know are the odds.

Hope Team Gets Past Malvern

Last night in Malvern the Hope Babe Ruth All-Stars defeated Malvern 5 to 4 in the district tournament.

Dwight Galloway hurled a five hitter while striking out 15 batters. Malvern's four runs came on a couple of errors and a sacrifice bunt.

Trailing 4-0 Hope rallied in the 6th inning. Galloway scored on a bases-loaded walk and Mike Monroe lashed out a double to put Hope ahead to stay.

The All-Stars go against Hot Springs tonight at 8 o'clock in Malvern.

Golden Anniversary Tournament

Associated Press Sports Writer AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The PGA's golden anniversary tournament begins Thursday with the game's top stars harboring various reasons for wanting to win the final major championship of 1966.

Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Billy Casper, Doug Sanders and Dave Marr are among those who have an ax to grind in the 72-hole battle across the vast field of the Firestone Country Club which measures 7,180 yards and carries a challenging par of 35-35-70.

Nicklaus is gunning for a three-quarter slam. If he tacks the PGA to his Master's and British Open victories, he'll become the first player to win three major titles in one year since Ben Hogan won the Masters, the British, the U.S. Open and then didn't compete in the 1953 PGA.

Palmer is still somewhat shocked from his big blowup loss to Casper in this year's Open and a triumph this week would gild Arnie's somewhat tarnished image.

Player, the 1965 golfer of the year, has virtually done nothing this year in the way of winning. The diminutive South African was one of the first pros to ap-

Robinsons Slug Orioles to Victory

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

There isn't much the American League can do about Frank Robinson, Brooks Robinson, Curt Blefary, Russ Snyder and the rest of Baltimore's slugging Orioles. But at least Eddie Watt is out of the way.

Watt admitted he wasn't ready to join the Orioles' slugfest society quite yet Tuesday evening though he walloped his first major league home run while pitching Baltimore to a 13-3 rout over Detroit.

"I hit one a year," Watt said after the game. "The pitch was in the one spot where I could hit it out."

Watt's first major league homer was the fourth of the night for the Orioles, who pounded four Detroit pitchers for 19 hits. Those conventional sluggers, Frank Robinson and Blefary, whacked the first three with Robinson's 24th and 25th driving in five runs.

The rout stretched Baltimore's first-place bulge over the Tigers to 9½ games.

Watt, a rookie reliever, went the distance in his second start of the season, scattering eight hits. He struck out seven and raised his record to 7-1.

Both Brooks and Frank Robinson ripped three hits apiece and Snyder, the American League's leading hitter, stroked two hits and raised his average to .336.

In the only other American League games played Tuesday, Minnesota swept a doubleheader 5-4 and 4-0 from Washington and Chicago edged Cleveland 5-4. Kansas City at New York and California at Boston were postponed by rain.

In the National League, Cincinnati went 18 innings before nipping Chicago 3-2 in the longest game played this year. Houston downed Philadelphia 8-2 and St. Louis topped Atlanta 10-9 in 12 innings.

The other NL clubs were not scheduled.

Robinson's first home run of the night was a three-run shot in the first inning as the Orioles hopped on Detroit starter Earl Wilson. He hammered No. 25 in the fourth inning after Watt had singled.

Blefary and Watt homered in the sixth against Johnny Podres.

Both Robinsons left the game in the seventh after collecting their third hits of the game. Until he was replaced by a pinch runner, Brooks had played every inning this season.

Jim Perry allowed just two infield singles and drove in two runs as the Twins completed their sweep against Washington. Perry retired 17 of the last 18 batters he faced and struck out five.

Cesar Tovar, who raced home with the winning run on Harmon Killebrew's eighth-inning single in the first game, also drove in two runs in the nightcap.

Jim Kaat weathered a 13-hit Senator attack to win his 13th game in the opener.

Pete Richert had a 4-2 lead on a two-hitter through six innings but had to leave the game when his arm stiffened. It was Richert's first appearance since the All-Star Game. After that game, Washington Manager Gil Hodges criticized Minnesota's Sam Mele for overworking Richert in the bullpen.

Pinch hitter Smokey Burgess delivered a sacrifice fly in the ninth inning, lifting the White Sox past the Indians.

Cleveland continued its slugging surge with homers by Fred Whitfield and Chuck Hinton. Jerry Adair had a two-run homer for the White Sox, who tied the score in the seventh when Tom McCraw walked with the bases loaded.

Ferrell Bats, Hurts Phils to Victory

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies knew before the game that the outfield grass in the Astrodome had been changed, but it's doubtful if they were ready for the change in Houston pitcher Dick Farrell.

Farrell scattered eight hits Tuesday night as the Astros climbed to one game above the .500 mark by beating the fourth-place Phillies 8-2.

But the change in Farrell didn't occur on the mound — where he has always been respected — but at bat — where he never has been feared.

The veteran right-hander belted two singles and his first homer since 1962 in four trips to the plate. The homer came with two men on in the sixth and gave the Astros a 7-2 lead.

The three hits gave him four in 32 at bats for a .125 average, and the victory was his fourth in 10 decisions.

The game was the first played on a surface which consisted of artificial grass in the outfield as well as the infield. The nylon surface has been in use in the Astrodome's infield all season.

"The ball bounces like a rubber ball," he said. "You can't hold your footing. It's hard to stop when you charge the ball. They should have left it like it was."

In the only other National League games, Cincinnati edged the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in 18 innings.

nings, the longest game in the majors this year, and St. Louis nipped Atlanta 10-9 in 12 innings.

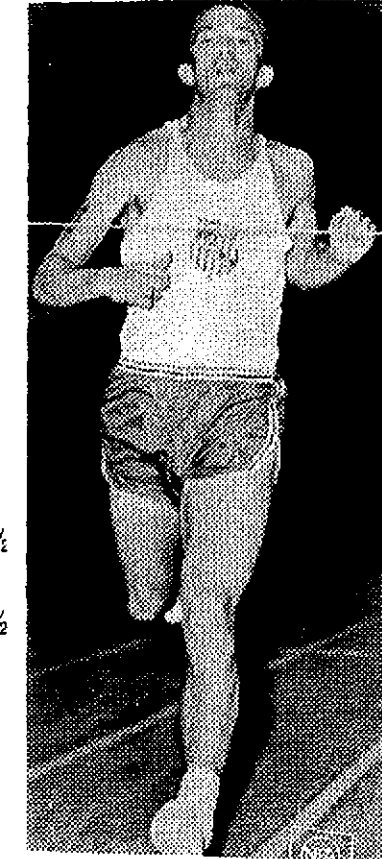

Chicago beat Cleveland 5-4, Minnesota took Washington 5-4 and 4-0, and Baltimore trounced Detroit 13-3 in the American League. Kansas City at New York and California at Boston were postponed because of rain.

Don Pavletich's homer with two out in the 18th won it for Cincinnati. Until then, the two teams had played eight straight scoreless innings.

The Cubs, who left 18 men on base, took a 1-0 lead in the seventh, and the Reds came back to tie it in the eighth. Then after the Cubs went ahead 2-1 in the eighth, the Reds again tied it when Gordy Coleman doubled home Pete Rose with two out in the ninth.

Atlanta built up a 7-0 lead at St. Louis, but the Cardinals tied it with seven runs in the sixth. Each got a pair in the seventh, and that ended the scoring until Charlie Smith singled home pinch runner Bob Tolan to win it in the 12th.

Joe Torre hit a grand-slam homer for the Braves in the first and belted a solo shot, his 24th, in the seventh. Smith also hit a two-run homer for the winners.

George Young

Six Years of Anonymity

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The toastmaster would introduce George Young as America's best steeplechaser, sending one of those polite ripples through the audience.

Inevitably, then, someone would say that George looked just a bit too big to be a jockey.

Well, George Young heard that one—or its equivalent—too many times. Now he is America's best ex-steeplechaser. He hasn't retired, just switched events temporarily. Maybe even permanently.

"It's just that I'm upset over the status of the steeplechase in this country," George said. "In Europe, the steeplechase is a big thing. Here, it's not even a full-fledged event."

"How can it be when some of the colleges and most of the high schools don't have it in their programs? We don't run it in the winter at all, and then during the season the meet directors don't want to have it because it means getting special equipment."

Even when the meet directors do include the steeplechase in their program, it often ends in chaos.

"They count the laps wrong," says Pat Traynor, formerly of Villanova, and Young's successor as the national champion, "have too many hurdles and last year George had to run an extra lap in the championships. I can understand why he's doing this. He's the type of person who stands up for what he says."

Young has won the national championship in the 3,000-meter steeplechase twice, in 1962 and '64, is a two-time Olympian ('60-'64) and holds the American record for the event, 8:34.2.

He has always run other distance events, but it wasn't until this spring in San Diego — when he beat Australian Ron Clarke in the 5,000 meters — that he decided to switch.

"All this time I've been putting in on the steeplechase and really for what?" George said. "A couple of big races a year. There just isn't as much personal satisfaction for me in the steeplechase as there might be in the 5,000."

"When I beat Clarke (the world record holder), I really surprised myself. I simply didn't think I could run that fast. It was only two seconds off the American record (13:38.0) and that's when I began thinking."

In the national championships this year, George finished first in the three-mile run, with 13:27.4. That means the Russians will be seeing him in a different event July 23-24 in Los Angeles during the annual dual meet.

The change intrigues George.

"You know," he said, "I became a steeplechaser because when I was in college (University of Arizona) Dwyer Burleson and Jim Grelle were the big men in the mile. So I was looking for an event and everyone said if you can't do anything else, run the steeplechase."

"I figured I could really make a name for myself in this event if I concentrated on it. So I put in the time. I worked all year for six years and it's not easy with all those hurdles and water jumps, especially for me because I consider myself a poor hurdler. I'd spend about 60 to 70 per cent of my time on the hurdles."

"Then I go against Clarke in San Diego and my time really astounds me. 'Suddenly I started thinking that maybe I've been running the wrong event for the last six years.'

It's a frightening thought, but George Young intends to find out.

Meanwhile, someone else can battle the hurdles, the water jumps and the anonymity of the steeplechase.

U.S. Says Davis
Owes $227,483

WASHINGTON (AP) — Entertainer Sammy Davis is fighting a claim by the Internal Revenue Service that he owes $227,483 in federal income tax.

Davis asked the U. S. Tax Court Monday to overturn an IRS finding that he owes $81,710 for 1959, $109,744 for 1960 and a late-filing penalty of $36,029.

Davis contends that thousands of dollars in expenses disallowed by the IRS were essential to his position in show business.

Chancery Judge Royce Weisenberger and Attorney F. C. Crow, each taking a non-partisan viewpoint in speeches before Hope Kiwanis Club Tuesday, named the various candidates in state and man entered the bedroom to find Mrs. Skelton stretched on the bed, bleeding at the chest. "What happened? What did I do?" she was reported to have said. Mrs. Skelton was rushed to the hospital where doctors determined the shot had penetrated no vital organs. After his performance, Skelton was told the news and he rushed tearfully to the hospital.

Trials Would Mean All Out Attack

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen says that even if no executions are ordered, "the American people will want to go whole hog" against North Viet Nam if Hanoi puts captured U.S. pilots on trial.

Views similar to that expressed by the Senate Republican leader at a news conference Tuesday were reflected in statements by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Sens. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.

Cooper said any violation of the Geneva prisoners of war convention by North Viet Nam "could provoke responses which would increase and increase into total barbaric conflict." Hanoi signed the convention in 1957.

"The possibility of a trial of these prisoners, and the unknown ultimate results of such a trial, should shock the conscience of the world and ought to lead every country in the world to express its condemnation," Cooper said.

Mansfield retained hope that the Communists will not go through with their threat to try the captured Americans as war criminals.

Kuchel said the Hanoi regime would "bring down the wrath of the world" if it tries the Americans. Dirksen said if such trials are held the world can expect to be assaulted with a taped radio-television barrage of propaganda. He predicted there may be "a rain-washed confessions" from American fliers.

"The trials will be as indecent and as one-sided as it is possible for the Communists to make them," he said. "This is one of the real benefits they hope to reap in world propaganda."

Dirksen said he had found after investigation that there is little, if any, hope of exchanging American prisoners for North Vietnamese captured in South Viet Nam.

He said he had undertaken this investigation at the request of a Navy commander's wife, whom he did not name. He said she represented an association of U.S. prisoners' relatives.

The most recent Pentagon count of American prisoners in North Viet Nam is 62, including 45 airmen. The number of pilots has not been disclosed.

Klein-Dodd Hearing in 2nd Round

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee indicated today its next round of hearings on misconduct charges against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd will deal with the Connecticut Democrat's financial affairs.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., told a reporter he will announce the subject and the date for the hearings just as soon as he can. But he said he had no definite information at this time.

The bipartisan committee's first round of hearings, to explore Dodd's dealings with Julius Klein, owner of a Chicago public relations firm and a registered agent for West German business interests, ended late Tuesday.

Klein spent the day in the witness chair. On a key issue, he insisted he hadn't pressured Dodd in going to West Germany in 1964 to help Klein retain his clients there.

"I don't know a single United States senator who can be pressured," said Klein, who testified all his letters, memos and telephone calls to Dodd were just the exercise of his "God-given right" of petition.

Klein, a Republican, said he also had asked Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and other senators to speak to German government and industrial leaders in his behalf. Javits later told a reporter he had mentioned Klein in talks with former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and former Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano.

Javits said in both cases his discussions dealt with Klein's views on German reparations to Jewish victims of Nazi prosecution.

No Sign of Slowdown in Corporations

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—If the economy slowed down in the second quarter of 1966, it forgot to tell the bookkeepers of many of the nation's top corporations. Day after day, they are reporting that their companies made more money than last year, and in many cases netted larger profits than for any other three months in their history.

Corporate earnings statements for the first six months and for the April-June quarter are flooding in now. To the delight of most shareholders the profit harvest is bountiful—and for many so is the outpouring of dividends.

But all is not quite that serene up in the corporate executive suites. The record profits which U.S. industry apparently racked up in the second quarter—based on early returns—doubtless are being watched closely by an administration bent on discouraging price increases it deems unjustified.

Record profits also may serve as an inspiration for union officials seeking to get a bigger share of corporate revenues for workers in the form of higher wage scales.

But the profits themselves spell out a story of prosperity—and a business boom which has yet really to level off, and one that certainly still seems far from turning down.

The list of companies reporting that second quarter profits were the highest for any three months is a sizable one. Some of the companies are: Du Pont, IBM, General Foods, Reynolds Metals.

Record profits for any second quarter also are reported by: Xerox, Polaroid, U.S. Rubber, Westinghouse Electric, Allis Chalmers, Kaiser Aluminum, RCA, Continental Can, Georgia-Pacific, Mead Corp.

And then there's American Telephone & Telegraph. It's one of three companies that made more than a billion dollars in all of 1965. AT&T seems well on the way to setting a profits record this year. For the three months ending May 31 it reports profits of $495,233,000, up from $435,732,000 in the like period last

The other two companies making more than a billion last year are General Motors and Jersey Standard Oil. Both are expected to report on this year's results by the end of this month.

Wife Is Shot, Skelton Keeps Show Going

By BOB THOMAS
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — His rubbery face masking his grief, Red Skelton clowning before a delighted audience Tuesday night as his wife lay seriously wounded in a Las Vegas hospital from an apparently accidental gunshot.

Georgia Skelton, 44, was declared in satisfactory condition at Sunrise Hospital following treatment for a chest wound which was inflicted with a pistol early Tuesday morning.

The accident took place in the Skeltons' suite in the Sands Hotel as he was performing in the supper club below.

The shot was heard by the Skeltons' daughter Valentina, 19, and a college student friend, Art Coleman, 19, who were in another part of the suite. Cole-

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG Pregnancy Not Dependent On Menstruation

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—After my third baby I did not menstruate for 18 months. My doctor gave me some pills that started my periods again. Now, after my fourth baby, I have not menstruated for six months. Can I get pregnant again if I don't have a period?

A—Menstruation may appear as early as eight weeks after delivery in a woman who does not breast-feed her child but, regardless of how you feed your baby, the time required for the reappearance of menstruation varies widely. When ovulation is re-established menstruation will occur if the uterus has not been impregnated. It is possible, therefore, to go from one pregnancy into another without having an intervening menstrual period.

Q—If a girl was born prematurely, would it be possible for her to bear a child later in life?

A—Prematurity would not, in itself, be a reason for infertility.

Q—Is there any possibility of an ectopic pregnancy occurring in a woman who has had her uterus, but not her ovaries and tubes, removed?

A—Not unless the operative technique was faulty and even then the chances would be minimal.

Q—With three of my five children the membranes ruptured three days before the baby was born. What would cause this?

A—When the membranes rupture before the onset of labor, "dry labor" results. The cause is unknown.

Q—When I was four months pregnant I had a menstrual period. This never happened to me before. What does it mean?

A—It is possible that you have a false pregnancy but, if you are truly pregnant, this may mean premature detachment of the placenta. In any case, it would be a serious sign and should be treated as an emergency.

Q—I suffered from "baby blues" or postpartum melancholia after my two children were born and had to take tranquilizers for a long time. What causes this?

A—The cause of the nervousness and severe depression sometimes observed in pregnancy or immediately following delivery is believed to be some kind of subconscious fear. Most mothers recover but the condition often recurs in subsequent pregnancies. Early recognition and reassurance by one's doctor may be all the treatment that is needed but, if this does not suffice, psychiatric consultation early in the course of the disease is helpful.

Deft Spy Thriller

THE KREMLIN LETTER. By Noel Behn. Simon & Schuster. $4.95.

The really first-rate espionage novel — and this is one — gives the reader a mounting crescendo of startling breaks in the plot, a dazzling array of technical tricks and atmosphere, some sex spice and plenty of deadly action.

It also helps if there is enough motivation to make the good guys and the bad guys seem believable for the moment, but that doesn't matter too much if there is plenty of action and entertainment. As there is here.

The hero of this story is a U.S. naval intelligence officer named Rone, who is recruited by an independent spy network; his code name (because he is a beginner in the tough major leagues of spydom) is "The Virgin."

Rone becomes a member of a team sent into Russia to replace a veteran agent, Polakov, who has gambled once too often and is very dead.

There may have been a secret letter — who has seen it? — from a Western power to someone in the Kremlin hierarchy, offering support in the power struggle over Khrushchev's ouster and succession. One Kremlin faction may want to use it for blackmail; the Western powers may want to get it back. Professional spies know it is worth millions.

The story is developed with a teasing balance between direct, stark narrative and cryptic encounters. Behn is very good in sketching rapidly those bottled scenes and clipped dialogues which are designed to tantalize the panting reader; those split-second scenes of brutality, disguise and betrayal, those fancy moments of intuitive deduction and desperate pursuit.

This is real spy-story magic. Of course we all know it is sleight-of-hand. But when it is done as deftly as this, it becomes a really delightful performance.

Do-it-Yourself

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

These days it is easy for amateur horticulturists to parlay their interests into a year-round project.

New materials bring greenhouses into the backyard picture as costs are brought down.

If a greenhouse is beyond the scope of a do-it-yourselfer, the same type of materials can convert a screened-in porch into a winter sunroom for plants.

Experiments at the University of Illinois have shown that a wide range of materials may be used for a simple greenhouse for year-round production of ornamentals and flowers. Illinois Research, a university publication, reported that a wide range of plastic materials were tested and that a greenhouse 10 feet wide and 10 feet 8 inches long proved to be a good do-it-yourself project. Frames were built, with common tools, of 2 by 4 lumber and attached to a sill plate with angle-iron braces, each frame spaced 32 to 36 inches apart.

Film plastics tested included polyethylene, vinyl, mylar, flat fiber glass. These were held in place with 1 by 2 batten strips nailed to the outside of the frame. Frames were notched at the peak and eaves. A solid concrete foundation that extended below the frost line gave trouble-free construction.

The researchers estimated that the materials cost about $100 or less, depending on the materials chosen. If one plans to use such a house for growing spring transplants or for temporary use, 4 to 8 mil polyethylene was found to be satisfactory, but is not recommended for year-round use as summer sunlight is likely to deteriorate it. Weatherable vinyl brings the price up another $50 to $75; mylar adds another $25 or $50, and if corrugated fiber glass is used the price comes to about $300. They estimated 5 mil mylar would last from three to five years, fiber glass should be good for 15 years. Other plastics would be shorter lived.

The cost can be run up with benches, heating, ventilation — another $250 or so. Stone chips on the floor under benches permit water runoff and add to the neatness of the greenhouse, advise the experts.

Other materials must be chosen with the area in mind. If other materials do not hold up in an area satisfactorily, more permanent materials could be chosen next time around, perhaps using existing framework.

A screened-in porch can provide a greenhouse in winter in some areas. A Long Island do-it-yourselfer enclosed an unheated screened-in porch with a heavy plastic material and grew a number of healthy looking plants all winter long.

Why Not Abolish Headlines?

Whenever people start criticizing newspapers, it's a safe bet somebody will say a few words about headlines. It happened again at the Governors Conference in Los Angeles, only this time it was a newspaper editor who did the talking. During a discussion of complaints about news presentation, Erwin D. Canham, editor in chief of The Christian Science Monitor, observed, "I sometimes think headlines ought to be abolished." The governors indicated their agreement with vigorous applause.

Well, why not abolish headlines? There are some pretty good reasons. A good headline tells the reader quickly what the story underneath has to say. It enables him to find a particular story he may be looking for. By its relative size and placement, the headline indicates the editor's best judgment of the story's value.

By its very nature, the headline is imperfect. It is an attempt to put in a few words what a writer may have taken hundreds of words to tell. Often news material simply cannot be condensed that much with total accuracy. A complex, carefully qualified policy statement, for example, is almost impossible to sum up in five or six words. In such cases, the headlines may be a compromise.

The frustrating conditions under which headlines must be written add to the problem. In the first place, a headline must fit in a given space which puts strict limits on how much can be said. Furthermore, the headline writer may have to read the story and write the headline under extreme time pressure. Though he may improve on his work in later editions, his first effort is there in print for all to see. In spite of all this, critics notwithstanding, a great many good headlines are written.

No one is more aware of the imperfections of headlines than the people who produce them. As Canham's wry comment indicates. Yet, with all their shortcomings, headlines perform an invaluable service. Without them, it would be almost impossible to make any sense out of a newspaper. — Louisville (Ky.) Times.

6 Schools May Lose Federal Aid

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Recommendations to withhold federal funds from seven school districts and send federal poll watchers to East Arkansas for the primary elections were revealed Tuesday.

The recommendations were made by the Arkansas Advisory Committee to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, which held hearings on civil rights complaints April 23 at Forrest City. The committee also recommended the suspension of government contracts for the Mohawk Rubber Co. at West Helena.

Ted Lamb of Little Rock, committee chairman, said the recommendations were made as a result of the Forrest City hearings.

He said they were first made at a June 6 meeting and were revised about 10 days ago before being sent to the commission at Washington.

A spokesman in Washington said the commission has not yet taken action on the matter. The committee recommended cutting off federal funds for the Forrest City, Marion, Marianna, Helena, Marvell and Hubert-West Memphis school districts.

The committee cited Forrest City for what it termed failure to comply with the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and that funds be withheld until the district takes more positive steps to carry out the letter and spirit of the law.

Vandals Hit Jacksonville Second Night

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Bands of vandals gave Jacksonville a second straight night of racial violence that was quelled only after police placed a curfew on a Negro business and residential area.

Police Sgt. J. T. Lowe said 12 persons — all Negroes and mostly teen-agers — were arrested. Many minor injuries were reported from the sporadic attacks by small bands.

Mayor Louis H. Ritter, who sounded out Gov. Haydon Burns Tuesday about calling out the National Guard if necessary, said city police were able to handle the situation, with the help of some state troopers.

"As long as it gets no worse we can handle it," Ritter said, adding that he would ask for troops in event of a riot.

Fires caused $1,000 damage to a laundry and unspecified damage to a grocery. Police said both were believed to have been set by homemade fire bombs.

Firemen reported that youths threw rocks at them as they fought the laundry blaze.

Would Like to Be First on Moon

PRAQUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin, the first man in space, has told a Czechoslovak newspaper he would like to be the first to land on the moon.

But "I have many competitors throughout the world," Gagarin told the newspaper Kultura Tvorba in Prague, where he is vacationing.

Gagarin said he thought the first man would get to the moon within five years.

Photographed in The Star office yesterday was this 3-year old female white-tail hawk and her new owner, Ken Allen, 13-year-old son of Gene Allen, of the newspaper staff, and Mrs. Allen.

The hawk had been raised from a chick by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Downs of Hope High School and was the pet of their son Ben. But the mocking birds around the Downs residence raised Cain over the presence of a meat-eating hawk and finally Ben reluctantly gave her to young Allen.

Ken Allen plans to use the hawk as a demonstration piece in Boy Scout work. Unlike the run of hawks she is friendly and likes to be stroked on her glossy back.

Promptly the problem rose as to where to put her for the night. Temporarily she wound up in an old quail pen at the editor's miniature game preserve behind his house — but she will be claimed by Ken Allen just as soon as he can arrange quarters for her. She eats raw meat and drinks a lot of water, and obviously knows people, carrying on a click-clack conversation with whoever happens to be near.

One Plane Is Victim of Red Missiles

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — North Viet Nam fired off a record 29 Soviet-made missiles Tuesday during heavy American air attacks near Hanoi and one of the rockets found its mark, the U.S. command reported.

One U.S. jet was lost to a surface-to-air missile and another was shot down by a Communist MIG 17 in a dogfight 20 miles north of Hanoi, a spokesman said. American pilots claimed damage to three MIGs but saw none go down.

On the "peace" front, the South Vietnamese government with apparent U.S. blessing offered to end the war, including the air strikes against the Communist North and begin talks toward reunification of North and South Viet Nam if the Viet Cong disband and Hanoi withdraws its troops from the South.

Except for the mention of reunification, the proclamation represented little new and reflected the new confidence in Saigon over the allied military position.

Riots Again at Cleveland, Guards Called

By DON MCKEE

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — National Guardsmen armed with machine guns today patrolled the battered and smoldering Hough section under a state of emergency order after two Negroes died in riots.

One Negro man was shot to death Tuesday night amid wild disorders.

Widespread shooting, looting, and firebombing by Negroes raged for four hours in the slums where a woman was killed by gunfire Monday night. Violence eased about midnight.

Gov. James A. Rhodes called up 1,500 troops and declared Tuesday night that "a state of tumult, riot and other emergency" prevailed in Cleveland.

Only a few hundred soldiers had reached the area by midnight. They patrolled in jeeps carrying machine guns.

In a proclamation signed in Columbus, Rhodes commanded lawless elements to halt the rioting. He said more guardsmen would be sent in if needed — on request of authorities here.

The grim tally after the second night of wanton destruction: Two killed by gunfire.

At least 24 injured, including 12 policemen, a fireman and five persons with gunshot wounds.

Unaccounted property damage from burning and looting. More than 100 arrests.

Ruined, blackened hulks of buildings, smashed store windows, heaps of tangled rubble — these were the ugly remains.

Harried firemen, often the target of rocks, got 52 calls. City Safety Director John N. McCormick said there were 37 or 38 fires Tuesday night.

Three Negroes, including two wounded by gunfire, were taken to a hospital Tuesday night. A white man was admitted with an eye injury. A Negro youth was treated for a forehead cut from a flying brick.

"It's just black against black — that's all they're doing," moaned a Negro shop owner sitting guard at his place. But it also was Negro against policeman much of the time.

"I hate police," blurted Willie Jones, a Negro, after he heard a friend tell of being beaten by police on the first night of the rioting.

Indonesia Official to Lose Command

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The commander of Indonesia's most powerful military force will be relieved of his command on July 20, usually reliable sources said today.

The sources said Maj. Gen. Ibrahim Adji, commander of the 30,000-man Siliwangi Division, will be replaced by his chief of staff, Maj. Gen. H.R. Dahsono.

Reds Keep Up Threat to Try Prisoners

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Are the American captives in North Viet Nam subject to trial under the 1946 Nuernberg Charter against war criminals — or are they immune from it under the 1949 Geneva convention for the protection of prisoners of war?

North Vietnamese diplomats have spotlighted a growing world legal dispute on that point in announcing that the captured fliers would be tried on war crime charges.

But Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. Chief delegate to the United Nations, told reporters in Geneva Tuesday that in the U.S. view "the Geneva conventions on the treatment of prisoners of war fully apply to the Viet Nam conflict." Goldberg is a former justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

This conflict of opinion was noted in an appeal made by Secretary-General U Thant last Saturday in which he asked North Viet Nam to exercise restraint in its treatment of American prisoners.

In a statement issued by a spokesman Thant urged all sides in the Viet Nam war to "comply with the provisions of the Geneva convention of Aug. 12, 1949, irrespective of conflict interpretations."

The North Vietnamese, however, continue to threaten the trial of U.S. personnel under the Nuernberg Charter.

Homemakers Going to Safety Meet

Five women are representing Hempstead county at the Arkansas Extension Homemakers Council's State Leadership Conference on Traffic Safety, according to Dolores McBride, Home Demonstration Agent. The conference is being held July 20-21 at the Velda Rose Motel in Hot Springs.

Those women attending from Hempstead County are: Mrs. Ernest Graham, County Health Leader; Mrs. Verner McMurtrey, Extension Homemakers President; Mrs. Letha Lawson, County Safety Leader; Mrs. Alphonso Williams, Assistant Home Agent, and Miss McBride, Home Demonstration agent.

"Alert Today — Alive Tomorrow," will be the theme of the state conference.

Miss McBride states the conference is open to any person interested in Traffic Safety. The Hempstead county delegates will learn how they can serve more effectively in building county traffic safety programs.

A note from Lt. Bill Conway, a Hope native and a former Star newspaperboy, of Tachisana, Japan inquires whether anyone has yet added the names of the Korean war dead to the Memorial on the Hempstead Courtyard.

So far as we know they haven't been added. Here's what Bill wrote:

"I don't know if you received my card some time ago in which I mentioned that a friend of mine, Al Ricketts a writer for Stars and Stripes, had written about Mary Martin and the world's largest watermelons from Weatherford, Texas. . . . CORBIN, Ky. (AP) — Court Clerk Everett Rains of Corbin issued a marriage license to a young couple with a small gift, saying "I hope you enjoy this small token of your marriage."

Several days later he met the mother of the bride on the street. "Well, how did the marriage ceremony come out?" Rains asked.

"You should know," the woman said. "After all, you married them."

Rains, taken aback, explained diplomatically he didn't marry the couple when he issued the license. The honeymooning couple was brought back from Cincinnati, Ohio, and a preacher did what Rains hadn't.

The Defense Department says the North Vietnamese, on the other hand, have lost 17 of their Soviet-built MIGs, including three of the later, more maneuverable MIG21s.

The United States has lost about 290 planes of all types in the air and ground war in Viet Nam, the Pentagon reports.

"It is our best estimate that they probably came primarily from the Soviet Union," Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance said last weekend.

Vance, content to describe the North Vietnamese air force as "relatively small," said the Hanoi regime has approximately 15 to 20 MIG21 supersonic aircraft, approximately 40 of the older MIG15s and 17s, and six of the old Soviet IL28 bombers.

U.S. B52 bombers made two raids before dawn today in the northernmost province of South Viet Nam not far from Operation Hastings. One raid hammered at a suspected troop concentration 17 miles southwest of Quang Tri City. The other plastered a major infiltration route 28 miles west-northwest of Quang Tri.

The U.S. command reported a collision in the air Tuesday of a U.S. Army "Huey" helicopter and an Army light observation plane in the central highlands 38 miles southwest of Pleiku. The helicopter crashed and burned, killing six Army men, a spokesman said. The observation plane also crashed and the pilot was listed as missing.

Astronauts Set for New Experiments

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Gemini 10 pilot Michael Collins was flashed an "all clear" today to stroll into space on a 50-foot lifeline and work with a "dead bird" target satellite left over from last March.

Using fuel from their own Agena space engine to make up some of the shortage on Gemini 10, command pilot John W. Young and Collins sped toward their distant target, expecting to catch up with it and begin Collins' space stroll at 5:56 p.m. (EST).

Space officials apparently decided the pungent gas that caused the Gemini twins' eyes to water during a 45-minute space stand Tuesday could be controlled.

The crew awoke about 8 a.m. after nine hours of sleep.

Young, a Navy commander, and Collins, an Air Force major, were told to use a secondary propulsion system in their Agena to change their orbital plane and adjust their height so they could jockey into a position to rendezvous with the old satellite.

Flight officials on the ground continued studying the problems of low fuel and smarting eyes as the astronauts spun 240 miles above the earth.

No Plans Yet to Hit Enemy Jet Bases

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials said today U.S. planes probably will not hit the three jet air bases near Hanoi unless the North Vietnamese air force becomes more of a threat.

A Defense Department spokesman said the bases are a latent threat.

But he added: "Until North Viet Nam puts up a substantial challenge to our air operations, the fields probably will remain a lower priority target."

In May, after a rash of dog-fights between U.S. and Communist planes, U.S. officials implied that the air strips would be attacked if more American planes were shot down.

Since then, according to the Pentagon, two American planes have been lost in air fighting. But officials apparently do not regard this as ample justification to take out North Vietnamese bases at Gia Lam, Phuc Yen and Kep.

In all, four U.S. jets have been shot down in dogfights with the Communists beginning in 1965.

The Defense Department says the North Vietnamese, on the other hand, have lost 17 of their Soviet-built MIGs, including three of the later, more maneuverable MIG21s.

The United States has lost about 290 planes of all types in the air and ground war in Viet Nam, the Pentagon reports.

"It is our best estimate that they probably came primarily from the Soviet Union," Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance said last weekend.

Vance, content to describe the North Vietnamese air force as "relatively small," said the Hanoi regime has approximately 15 to 20 MIG21 supersonic aircraft, approximately 40 of the older MIG15s and 17s, and six of the old Soviet IL28 bombers.
